October 1, 2012

Princeton University Press
41 Williams Street
Princeton NJ 08540

RE: Davis Couch Potato Inventory

Dear Madame or Sir:

I am writing to request written permission to use the Davis Couch Potato Inventory (Davis, 2003) in my graduate research project relating stress levels to the amount of time adolescents spend watching television. This project is part of a graduate research methods in psychology course requirement at University of Houston-Clear Lake.

I also would appreciate receiving copies of (1) the test questionnaire, (2) the standard instructions for administering the test, and (3) scoring procedures.

My research is being supervised by my professor, Emily Greatscholar, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Psychology, University of Houston-Clear Lake.

If this request meets with your approval, please sign, date, and return this letter to me in the enclosed self-addressed, stamped envelope. I also am enclosing an additional copy for your records.

Thank you for your help and prompt attention to my request.

Sincerely,

Samantha J. Student
2001 Graduation Gardens
Houston TX 77058

I agree to the above request.

------------------------------------------
Signature                                      Date

*Used with permission and based on Appendix E of the Senior Thesis Handbook (2009-2010), Psychology Department, Dominican University of California.